

SFB 1036

dkfz.

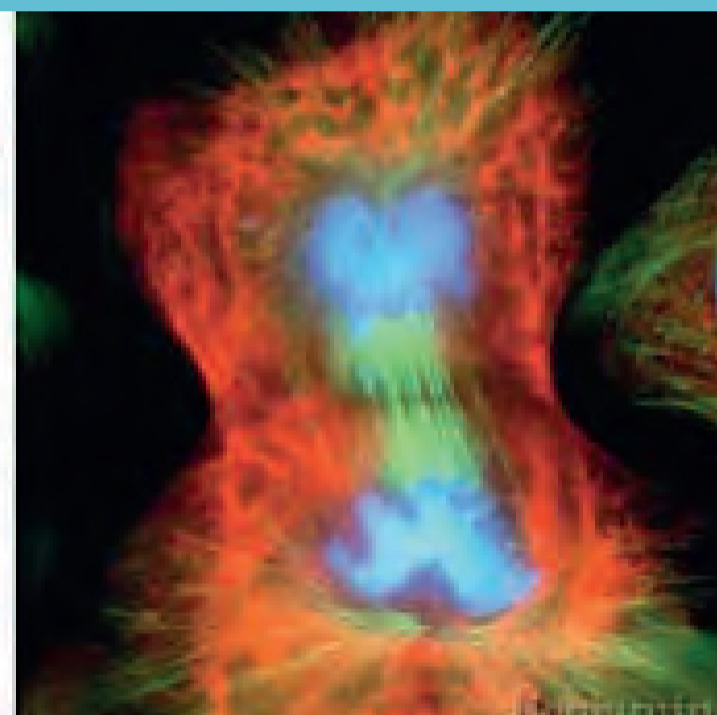

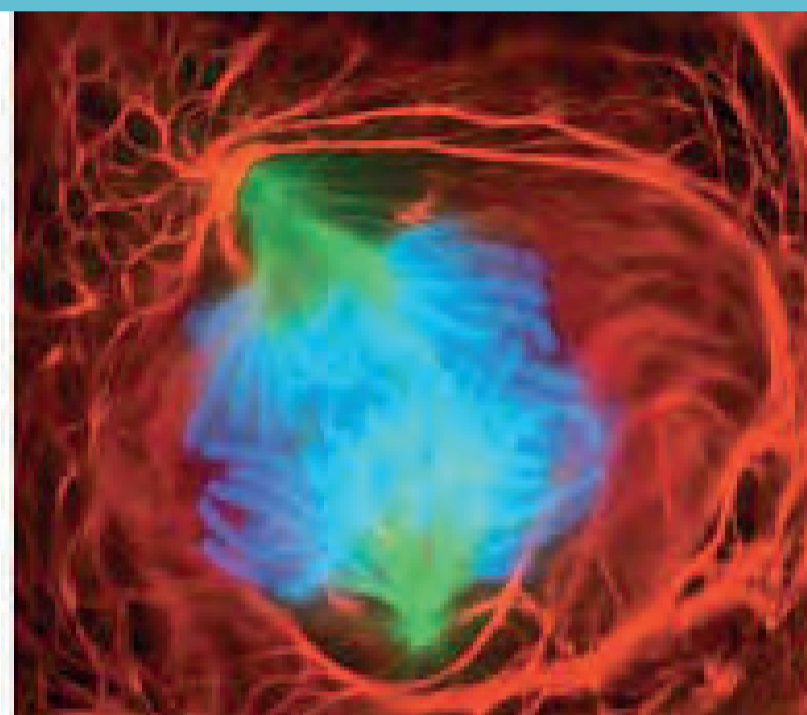

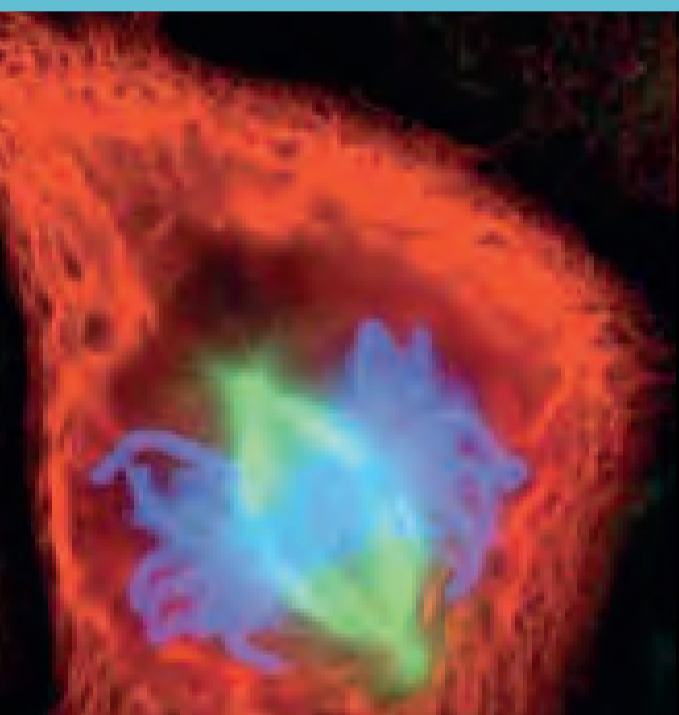

Research for a Life without Cancer

GERMAN
CANCER RESEARCH CENTER
IN THE HELMHOLTZ ASSOCIATION

DKFZ-ZMBH Alliance

Distinguished Lecturer

“Targeting the Cell’s Stress Pathways for Therapeutic Benefit”

Peter Walter

University of California, San Francisco

Thursday, November 08, 2018, at 11:00

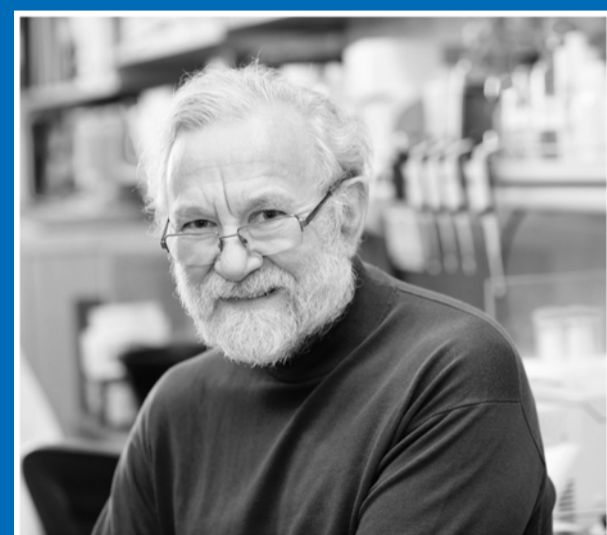

DKFZ, Communication Center, Lecture Hall

This event is co-organized together with
SFB 1036 and the DKFZ-ZMBH Alliance

No registration fee. Further information & updates:

www.dkfz.de/en/distinguished-lecturer

Deutsches Krebsforschungszentrum, Im Neuenheimer Feld 280, 69120 Heidelberg

Peter Walter is a Distinguished Professor of Biochemistry and Biophysics at UCSF and a Howard Hughes Medical Institute Investigator.

He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences and the American Academy for Arts and Sciences and an associate member of the European Molecular Biology Association and the Nationale Akademie der Wissenschaften Leopoldina.

His more recent awards include the 2015 Vilcek Prize, the 2018 Breakthrough Prize, the 2018 Judd Award for Cancer Research and the 2018 van Deenan Medal.